

Ken Riley, AIA, NCARB, Principal Architect

As Principal Architect, Ken Riley brings more than 25 years of architectural experience on a wide variety of projects including commercial/retail/mixed used, hospitality and resort, industrial, institutional, and large and small custom home designs. Ken feels strongly that the interpretation of the client's development needs and financial goals are the core of the project. A strong connection between the landscape and the architecture is a critical component of what we can offer the client with the Land Architects team. To get a natural and strong architectural design that flows and works with the site, it needs to be developed from the beginning and in unison with the client's and the site's needs.
